Traveling the Hill Country

The adventurers begin their journey to Gloym from any of their towns, either in company with Trindon Mosley on their own, following his directions. The adventure is intended to occur during the latter stages of winter just as spring is breaking forth but before a full thaw. Mornings remain frosty and cold, with ice rimming water buckets in the PCs camp, and the low sun does little to warm the landscape though it is enough to cause the trees to ~~leech~~ leech off their coats of winter white, often in ~~some~~ some cascades.

Check for random encounters once per day thereafter (once during the day, once at night).

blood-freezing howl, hopefully as part of a surprise round. While opponents will rush in to pounce on a Small target if available (if not, the smaller PCs converge on its position, the vooonth will swim away and dash to any creature isolated from its allies. The vooonth will stay in the water to cover against opponents on shore (see aquatic combat rules). If bro away and does not return.

In addition, the vooonth's shrieking cry attracts the attention of an owl on the east side of the river and arrives 3 rounds after the vooonth at particularly stealthily; however, the distance and the sound of the river approach. On the first round of its approach, PCs notice something rip away on the far side of the river with a DC 25 Perception check. On that it is Large and furry less than 100 feet away with a DC 20 Perception catch a glimpse of the creature 30 feet away in the blackberry bushes. Perception check. The owl happily plunges into the river, as it withstand the current.

For a one man show, not too bad... :). This game is so cute, however I have keep having lag that makes this game unplayable. Once that is fixed then I would definitely recommend this game.. Been in and out of this game for 5 years. Kept on coming back because no other card game feels the same. I recommend this game to everyone that want a card game that is beyond whoever have the bigger monster wins, whoever with the most monsters win. Hopefully, this game become more than who ever throws more cash in it wins, but we will see.

To those who started game just now, brace for a hard hike up that learning curve. Some called it a discipline. Its not an easy game to pick up because of the depth this game can offer. But once you do pick it up, the possibility is limitless. It is also a good time to start considering all the new features that help out newer players. I remember when this game has next to nothing to offer for new players when it first started. Don't worry if you feel limited in stuff you can make when you first start out, the free features now will get you to that point of being creative in no time.

I would love to see the continued evolution of this game, it has come a long way and will probably still have a long way to go. I believe in the devs to continue debug and solve issues. They have been active and actively listening to issues.. If you can get this at a deep discount, it won't feel like a rip-off. I got it cheap, thankfully. That said, I didn't particularly enjoy the majority of this bundle. The Lake House had an okay story (for a Hidden Object Game (HOG)), but all the rest either had awful stories (Mexicana) or boring/lazy stories (Kronville Stolen Dreams. Plot twists are cringe-worthy, and the characters weren't interesting or very likable in any of the games. A few of the puzzles were fairly nonsensical as well (pouring pepper on an octopus...).

The art in these games is on par with most decent HOGs, and visually, they look pretty good. That said, with so many HOGs out there, the only reason to play through this collection is just to play through some HOGs you haven't completed before. I cannot imagine myself revisiting any of these games in this bundle except for The Lake House. Replaying other HOGs would generally be far more fun in my opinion.

In closing, I cannot stress enough how stupid Mexicana's storyline is, though. The big reveals are maddening.. my first date went pretty awkward <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=o5K8eLBUi7g>. This train is amazing perfect for my chengdu-sui-ng route!

Lovin it! MUST BUY WITH ROUTE.

Very good detail and i like the thing when you go overspeed and if it's too much it slows down to 0KPH Good idea with the previous CRH1A. Nice. got it for free because I bought the deluxe edition before the launch of M&M X Legacy!
Nice game but the beginning was a bit irritating as I need to load the games again and again to get the correct combination to lure the guards.. Sorry i have a problem. when run the game i give a error with .mdmp . What i do?

Really amazing game! Its hard and I like the challenge. Definitely worth playing.. This game is good if you want to practice strumming and chord changes. If you are new to the guitar you can learn chords through Justinguitar.com. He is one of the best online instructors out there. This game would be a lot better if you could hook up a microphone so it can hear you play, letting you know how you did. It would make the points system on this game make sense. As of now you dont have to play in order to increase points and you could be terrible at playing and get same points as you would if you were great.

May I suggest to Musopia to make the pc version like the app version for ios. However I will not download the app to my phone because I will not subscribe to a monthly service. This game has a lot of potential so please make it better. Just add a microphone interface so we can interact with the game.. A short but fun physics puzzle / sidescroller with a number of unique things to figure out. Also pretty.. <https://Vvsteamcommunity.com/Vsharedfiles/VfiledetailsV?id=1401032815>. ok its a pretty bad port but its a fun game. honestly though i wouldnt buy it if it isnt going to give you nostalgia. So some people have been saying they like this game coz it's a port of the Neo Geo game and if you want old skool Neo Geo then you might like it. I don't know much about them so I'll go off their word, but here's why I don't like it.

My biggest gripe is you can't strafe, you can only shoot forward so you have to be facing the enemy. This is fine with one or two enemies, but when several attack you at once, some shooting multiple bullets/arrows, you can't run and gun. You have to run and dodge and wait wait for a brief moment to turn and get off one shot, two if you're lucky. Then repeat until each enemy is dead and hope you don't take too much damage in the meantime. So common encounters of low level enemies become frustrating, especially as most are bullet sponges taking about 6 shots each.

The controls are slow and lumbering. It feels like even moving out of the way of an arrow is harder than it should be. The combat doesn't feel satisfying at all and I only played level 1 but it was so boring! You just shoot slow moving shurikens against slow moving enemies and the kick is mostly useless unless you can finish an enemy in one go coz any more and you -will- take damage.

The difficulty feels hard not because the game is hard but because the controls are bad. I'm a fan of bullet hell shooters and the like so I don't mind extreme difficulty etc but with this I feel my skill is restricted the slow controls so I can't enjoy the game as I do with others. Just on the first level I felt I had to put much more effort in to get through than it needed. Again this might be coz it's from the Neo Geo and you're used to that or want that and that's fine. But with some extra work it could have been a much more enjoyable game.

TL:DR - it's funny, got lots of pervy stuff, slow/dated controls make it frustrating and boring to play, is a Neo Geo port, can't strafe. The best, worst game I've ever played.. my favorite game, gorgor is cool, sad that poly bridge took this game and bumped the gfx up and they get all the credit
